

*NEW* Summer Positions with the Center for Global Reproductive Health

Summer Communications Intern

The Center for Global Reproductive Health is looking for a dynamic, tech savvy Comms Intern that can help us develop and implement an effective communications strategy that will expand the Center's online presence and following through great website content and strategic social media campaigns. The Comms Intern will also help build out our website and social media platforms, write content, and assist with production of our quarterly newsletter.

The ideal candidate will have graphic design skills, be a strong writer, be fluent with WordPress, be very detail oriented and proactive, and be passionate about global and/or reproductive health. We anticipate this being a 10 hr/week commitment through the summer. This work can be done remotely and allows for a very flexible schedule. Please email stacey.dixson@duke.edu to set up a call or in-person meeting.
