

NEW* Summer Positions with the Center for Global Reproductive Health

Website Design Intern

The Center for Global Reproductive Health is looking for a website design intern for the summer to help refine and expand the Center's online brand. This position will support in the re-design of the Center's website and newsletter, post regular compelling content, and work with the Center Manager and Communications Manager to shape the online presence of the Center.

The ideal candidate will be adept at using Word Press, have graphic design skills, experience designing websites, be interested in reproductive health, and be a strong writer. We anticipate a 5-10 hr/week commitment. This work can be done remotely and allows for a very flexible schedule. Please email stacey.dixson@duke.edu to set up a call or in-person meeting.